01 — Overview

Edina at a glance

Edina sits just southwest of Minneapolis. It's known for top-tier schools, a strong outdoor lifestyle, and a wellness-and-fitness culture that already supports premium operators like Life Time, Orangetheory, and a growing roster of boutique studios and med spas.

METRIC	EDINA	TWIN CITIES METRO	U.S.
Population	53,500	3.7M	—
Median age	44	37	39
Median household income	$128,767	$99,833	$78,538
Average household income	$214,711	—	—
Bachelor's degree or higher	72%	42%	36%
Owner-occupied housing	70%	—	65%

Median household income is roughly 1.5× the metro average. Average household income exceeds $214K — meaning a meaningful cohort of dual-income executive, medical, and legal professionals.

02 — Audience

Three personas worth chasing

Edina's wellness customer doesn't fit neatly into one demographic. Three overlapping personas drive the bulk of our addressable demand.

CORE · PRIMARY The Engaged Professional Age38–58 HHI$150K+ Gender60F / 40M Married professionals or executives, often dual-income. Many are physicians, attorneys, finance pros, or business owners. They prioritize their own longevity so they can keep up with family, career, and an active lifestyle.	SECONDARY The Longevity Seeker Age55–70 LifestyleActive FocusHealthspan Empty-nesters and pre-retirees with strong disposable income. Active in golf, tennis, pickleball, cycling, and travel. They've watched parents age and want a different outcome. Receptive to NAD+, peptides, and immune support.	TERTIARY The Performance Mom Age32–45 ProfileTime-poor ChannelIG, Reels Active moms juggling careers, kids' sports, and a wellness routine. Members at Life Time or boutique studios. Already use IV hydration recreationally. They want efficient interventions — a 45-minute drip on a lunch break beats a multi-step regimen.

03 — Competition

The competitive landscape

Edina's wellness market is mature but not saturated for our model. Most competition is aesthetics-led or recreational — our medical direction and clinical framing is the difference.

COMPETITOR	TYPE	POSITION
Hydrate IV Therapy	DIRECT IV	5030 France Ave S. Established, Yelp top-rated. Med spa positioning.
Be Your Kind	INTEGRATIVE MED SPA	Strong on aesthetics and women's health. IV is a supporting service.
Life Time Southdale	LUXURY HEALTH CLUB	Premium fitness + recovery. Not clinical IV, but capture our audience daily.
Local med spas	AESTHETICS-LED	Mostly Botox/filler with light IV add-ons.

OUR DIFFERENTIATOR

Medical direction. Nurse-administered protocols. Transparent clinical framing. No aesthetics distraction. We're a clinical wellness lounge — not a med spa.

04 — Culture

Cultural & behavioral insights

The "Minnesota Nice" cultural baseline shapes how Edina shops, listens, and buys. Loud doesn't translate. Substance does.

Winter drives immune demand

Minnesota winters create real seasonal demand. Vitamin D, NAD+, immune drips, and energy support are essentials from October through March.

Lake-and-cabin summer

June through August, Edina residents head to northern Minnesota cabins on weekends. Hydration and recovery becomes the summer use case.

"Minnesota Nice" tone

Direct boasting underperforms. Reserved confidence wins. Educational framing wins. Social proof wins. Hype reads as suspicious.

High health literacy

The audience tolerates — and rewards — clinical language. They want to understand the science before they spend.

Understated affluence

Lutheran/Scandinavian cultural baseline. Practical, family-oriented, allergic to glitz. Avoid influencer-style copy.

Wellness as social currency

Wellness functions the way golf or boating does in Edina. Members of Life Time, Edina Country Club, and Indian Hills overlap heavily.

05 — Voice

Brand voice — Edina

Edina adopts the Keller voice baseline with Minnesota cultural adjustments. The result is a voice that feels professional, calm, and credible — never loud.

VOICE PILLARS

Five principles that define how we sound.

01

Professional, approachable

Knowledgeable friend in medicine. Not a salesperson. Not a hype account.

02

Confident, not loud

State the science. Let it stand. No exclamation points. No superlatives.

03

Education-driven

Every post teaches something. Lead with why it works before what we offer.

04

Calm authority

No urgency manipulation. No fake scarcity. We're the grown-ups in the category.

05

Raising the BaR

Used to signal the next tier of wellness — same as Keller.

+ USE

"Backed by science"

"Clinically administered"

"Under medical direction"

"Targeted support"

"Cellular-level"

"Delivered directly to your bloodstream"

"Raising the bar on what's possible"

- AVOID

"Game-changer," "miracle," "magic"

"Crush your day," "level up"

All emojis

Newspaper-style capitalized headlines

"Y'all," "howdy," any Texas-isms

"Cure," "treat," "diagnose"

Any banned medical claims

06 — Pillars

Content pillars

Six pillars to build a recurring editorial calendar around. Each maps to a target persona and a seasonal moment.

i.

Seasonal Wellness

Winter immune, summer hydration, spring detox, fall recovery.

ii.

Performance & Recovery

For the active Edina lifestyle — golf, tennis, pickleball, lake sports.

iii.

Longevity & Healthspan

NAD+, peptides, cellular repair, cognitive support.

iv.

Beauty from Within

Glutathione, biotin, skin-focused drips — without crossing into med-spa aesthetics.

v.

Education

"What is an IV drip?"
"How do peptides work?" "Why bioavailability matters."

vi.

Local Life

Subtle ties to Edina events, schools, seasonal activities, community moments.

|---|---|
| 01 Medical Director name — still TBD in the brand knowledgebase. | 02 Exact address & hours — for the location directory. |
| 03 Esthetics scope — IV-only like Keller, or aesthetics like Flower Mound? | 04 GHL group name — what should we label it (e.g., "DBE")? |
| 05 Owner/operator contacts for the email recipient list. | 06 Local imagery library — real photos yet, or stand-ins until buildout? |
